Training in Supervision

Friday, 07th and Saturday, 08th February 2020

Ruth Ammann, Dipl. Arch. ETH

We are offering training over two days for Accredited Members of the C.G.Jung Institute Zürich, Küsnacht, who want to become a supervisor – and for all interested Psychotherapists and Psychoanalysts.

Ruth Ammann, senior supervisor at the Institute, will provide theoretical input and 'live-supervision'. This can take the form of individual supervision in front of the training participants, who will discuss the work done afterwards together. It can also be group supervision. The participants are invited to bring with them case material out of supervisions or therapies, that they feel could benefit from supervision.

6 credits ( 2 theory, 4 practice = live-supervision)

Abstracts

Supervision of Paintings, Drawings and other Creative Work

Supervising creative work, such as paintings, drawings or collages done during analysis asks for specific knowledge. Therefore, we firstly discuss the necessary preconditions for working with paintings and drawings, and we will then explore the specific language and technique we need when supervising creative expressions.

Please bring your own paintings (series if possible) or other creative work from your practice, best the original works, if not available big and good enough photos or a memory stick.

Supervision of Sandplay Processes

As Sandplay is a specific therapy method, we will discuss the necessary preconditions for supervising this method, such as f.ex. the questions around the special setting, the documentation, the use of sandpictures as a process or as single pictures during verbal analysis.

Please bring examples of Sandplay processes or single pictures from your personal work or from your clients on a memory stick or good, big A4 copies (several for the participants) of the photos. If you have special questions regarding Sandplay you are welcome to send them to me beforehand.
